NAIDOC Week Edition

VOICE TREATY TRUTH

07 - 14 JULY 2019
Let's work together for a shared future.

<https://www.naidoc.org.au/>

2019 is the International Year of Indigenous Languages and this year's NAIDOC week celebrations are focused on the significance of Aboriginal languages to history, culture and identity in Australia. 'Voice', 'Treaty', and 'Truth' were key elements of the Uluru Statement from the Heart and express the long standing call for the meaningful and effective inclusion of Aboriginal voices in all levels of Australia's democracy.

Teachers can find teachers guides and education resources exploring this year's NAIDOC theme, poster artwork and the history of NAIDOC week at: <https://www.naidoc.org.au/>

"It's time for our knowledge to be heard through our voice – an Indigenous voice of this country that is over 65,000 plus years old.. They are the first words spoken on this continent. Languages that passed down lore, culture and knowledge for over millennia. They are precious to our nation and need to be celebrated but it's our voice that needs to be listened to." (John Paul Janke, NAIDOC Co-Chair, 2019)

Inside this edition you will find details of our library services and resources as well as upcoming workshops for professional development. OWC offers specialist workshops and events throughout the year at a discount rate

FOR LEARNING AND SHARING ...

Bruce Pascoe's book Dark Emu has transformed existing understandings of the relationship between Aboriginal peoples and the Australian landscape and, with it, the global history of agriculture and technology. Pascoe's research reveals the highly innovative and complex agriculture, aquaculture, food production and land care systems of Australia's first peoples that were in place thousands of years before the arrival of Europeans. His work communicates Aboriginal knowledge, practice and cultural understandings that are key to the future of environmental stewardship, land care and food production in Australia.

There are several pathways for teachers who wish to bring Pascoe's work into the classroom. ABC education has released a 'digibook' - Bruce Pascoe—Aboriginal Agriculture, Technology and Ingenuity. This resource is available online at <http://education.abc.net.au> and includes links to interviews, videos and primary sources. This material can be used to enrich and extend multiple aspects of the WA curriculum, including Design and Technologies, History and Geography, and Biological, Chemical and Earth Sciences.

Young Dark Emu—A junior version of Dark Emu written for children and young adults will be available for loan from the One World Centre Library soon.

RESOURCES FOR NAIDOC WEEK AND BEYOND

One World Centre houses a rich collection of teaching and learning resources for exploring Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories, cultures and perspectives. Included among these are our Teaching Kits, Djinganginy Kadakjini Noongar Hands-on Kits, and Poster Collections.

RECONCILIATION

Ideas for the Upper Primary Classroom

The kit draws on a wide range of printed and online resources. It begins with a brief introductory discussion about Reconciliation and then outlines learning activities that explore a number of themes. It also provides plenty of information about where to find further resources and ideas to explore Reconciliation in more depth.

NIDJA NOONGAR BOODJAR NOONOOK NYININY A Resource Package for Schools

These learning materials have been developed to encourage and improve literacy and numeracy levels in Aboriginal students throughout the South West of Western Australia.

The materials describe the contribution made to Australian history, culture and contemporary society by Aboriginal people using the knowledge and language of Noongar people.

DJINGANGINY KADAKJINI NOONGAR Seeing and Understanding Noongar

Hands-on Kit.

This kit, which was developed in a school context, includes a large range of materials and teaching resources to guide teachers and learners in their engagement with Noongar cultures and history of the south-west of Western Australia. The kit includes Noongar artefacts, learning programs, lesson plans, work samples, assessments and other resources to enhance understanding and Reconciliation. The kit is divided into four sections, Literacy & Numeracy—The Arts—History & Geography—Science & Health.
