The Enduring Effects of War

A new resource for teachers to investigate the long-term effects of war on soldiers and civilians in Australia and overseas.

Teachers often feel conflicted about teaching war history in the secondary classroom. This workshop provides teachers with a new resource produced by the History Teachers Association of Victoria, which aims to support teachers who want to inspire critical understanding of the real and lasting impact of war on veterans, civilians and society. The resource has been designed to align with the Australian Curriculum: History.

The workshop will be introduced by BRIAN CLEAVER, featured in David Bradbury's recent film "The Crater – a vietnam war story".

Participants will:

- Receive a digital copy of the complete set of lesson plans: which contain rubrics, talking head videos, classroom activities, power point presentation, assessment tasks, web-links to primary and secondary sources.
- Participate in practical activities suitable for the classroom.
- Discover the links between teaching about the enduring effects of war and the requirements of the Australian Curriculum.
- Discover the wide variety of resources available at the One World Centre to assist teaching about global education.
